UNDERSTANDING FOREX

What is forex trading?

Forex trading, also known as foreign exchange or FX trading, is the conversion of one currency into another. FX is one of the most actively traded markets in the world, with individuals, companies and banks carrying out around $6.6 trillion worth of forex transactions every single day.

While a lot of foreign exchange is done for practical purposes, the vast majority of currency conversion is undertaken by forex traders to earn a profit. The amount of currency converted every day can make price movements of some currencies extremely volatile – which is something to be aware of before you start forex trading.

FOREX PAIR

A forex pair is a combination of two currencies that are traded against each other. There are hundreds of different combinations to choose from, but some of the most popular include the euro against the US dollar (EUR/USD), the US dollar against the Japanese yen (USD/JPY) and the British pound against the US dollar (GBP/USD).

HOW IT WORKS

- Forex trading works like any other transaction where you are buying one asset using a currency. In the case of forex, the market price tells a trader how much of one currency is required to purchase another. For example, the current market price of the GBP/USD currency pair shows how many US dollars it would take to buy one pound.

Each currency has its own code – which lets traders quickly identify it as part of a pair.

HOW TO BECOME A FOREX TRADER

There are several ways to trade forex, including trading spot forex, forex futures and currency options. When you trade with us, you'll be predicting on the price of spot forex, futures and options either rising or falling with a CFD account.

Spot forex trading lets you trade forex pairs at their current market price with no fixed expiries

Forex or currency futures enable you to trade forex pairs at a specified price to be settled at a set date in the future or within a range of future dates

Forex or currency options let you trade contracts that give the holder the right, but not the obligation, to buy or sell a currency pair at a set price, if it moves beyond that price within a set time frame

All of these – spot, futures and options – can be traded with and FX CFDs. These are financial derivatives which let you predict on whether prices will rise or fall without having to own the underlying asset.
